

Spanish: El baile de la ensalada The salads dance

Grammar

Masculine and feminine singular nouns.

Definite article THE (el/la) in masculine and feminine.

Ask the question how many? In masculine and feminine.

Answer the question using the structure there is/there are plus the right amount of vegetables.

Culture

Typical Spanish foods in summer

Summer in Spain means eating and drinking outdoors! People here turn to frosty glasses and chilled plates to keep cool. Who needs air conditioning when you can have fresh salads and cold soups? Yes, a cold soup called GAZPACHO is a fresh dish made with red tomatoes, cucumber, green pepper, olive oil, vinegar and salt. Very worth trying it if you travel to Spain. Also fresh salads full of colourful ingredients are a must try in Spain due to the quality of national products. But the special mention goes to melon with cured ham. Although it may seem like an odd combination, the sweetness of the melon and the saltiness of the ham combine perfectly.

Key Sounds

ch g ll z ce

ch

In lechuga (lettuce)

g

In lechuga and gusta (lettuce and like)

ll

In repollo and cebolla (cabbage and onion)

z

In zanahoria (carrot)

ce

In aceite (oil)

ROCKALINGUA <https://rockalingua.com/>

User name

Grangepark

Password

morado

Key Vocabulary

Spanish

English

El tomate

The tomato

La lechuga

The lettuce

La cebolla

The onion

El repollo

The cabbage

La zanahoria

The carrot

El aceite

The oil

Hay

There is / there are

No hay

There isn't/ there aren't ¿Cuántos hay?

How many are there? (masculine)

¿Cuántas hay?

How many are there? (feminine)

El baile de la ensalada

The salad dance

